FILM RELEASE OF THE NO.1 LADIES DETECTIVE AGENCY WILL BOOST TRAVEL TO BOTSWANA SAYS ACACIA ADVENTURE HOLIDAYS

Alexander McCall Smith's No. 1 Ladies Detective Agency has no doubt been influential in popularising the destination of Botswana as a whole; and with a film version of the bestselling title due to be released later in the year, Acacia Adventure Holidays is sure that more travellers will be heading for Botswana.

The South East Adventure stops in Botswana's magical Okavango Delta with opportunities to explore its grassy islands and myriad waterways in search of hippo and crocodile. A true wilderness experience the tour also incorporates camping on the delta's river islands with adventurers being able to kick back and relax amongst the lily pads and the long swaying grasses. The 31-day overland tour costs £995pp + local payment from £341pp, with year round departures (Kenya, Tanzania, Malawi, Zambia, Botswana and South Africa).

The East African Explorer passes through Francistown, one of the oldest towns in Botswana. Frequent references are made to this frontier town in the No.1 Ladies Detective Agency and while this is not an actual stopping point, the beauty of overlanding itself is sightseeing en route to the next destination. Nata, a village of 5,000 people located on the edge of the Makgadikgadi Pans; and Kasane a small town said to be the base from which David Livingstone made his greatest find, are also highlights on the way to Botswana's Chobe National Park. Here, adventurers can opt to take the famous fish eagle game-viewing cruise – a laid back water based safari, with the opportunity to spot hippo and elephant cooling off in the Chobe River. The 21-day overland tour costs £695pp + local payment from £95pp with year round departures (South Africa, Botswana, Zambia, Malawi, Tanzania and Kenya).

Acacia Adventure Holidays also features small group adventures, which take a maximum of 15 travellers. The 10-day Delta and Chobe Waterways tour includes one night's camping in Nata, a game drive or river cruise in the Chobe National Park, wilderness camping in Maun and a visit to the Khama Rhino Sanctuary in Serowe. The 10-day small group adventure costs £725pp + local payment from £153pp, with year round departures.

The above prices include all tour highlights as listed in the brochure, transport, road tolls and taxes, camping and cooking equipment, most meals and services of tour leader and driver.

Discount applicable to groups of three or more booking together.

Excludes return international flight, visas, departure taxes, transfers, and flexible local payment excursions. Please note: the above local payments should appear separate to the actual tour cost as they have been converted from USD to GBP for media.
